Six thousand one hundred and ninety electors—about 2,000 less than the city's voting strength—had enrolled for the November 4 election, when the books were opened Saturday, the last day of registration.

Complete reports from the 21 precincts showed 1,960 electors signed the books Friday. This was the smallest report of the three days, as 4,230 voters qualified on the first and second days, October 2 and 9.

Enrollment of Women

While no figures were available Saturday as to the number of women, who qualified Friday, it was estimated that not more than 40 percent of those who visited the polls during the day were female voters. A few of the registrars estimated that the men and women electors were almost evenly divided. In one precinct, it was said that the women registrars outnumbered the men two to one.

Reports for the first three days show Precinct B of the second ward, known as the Thompson Hill precinct, where 447 have qualified, heading the list. Registrars in this precinct declare that the names of nearly 700 electors were on the books last year. Precinct C of the second ward had 415 registered, while Precinct D of the first ward had 396 qualified voters. In Precinct F of the Fourth ward, Pleasant Heights, only 184 voters have enrolled, 44 names having been placed on the books, Friday.

Voters, who have not yet registered, must qualify before 10 o'clock Saturday night if they expect to vote on November 4. Registrars will meet at the polling places between 3 a. m. and 10 o'clock.

What will probably be the biggest Republican rally of the campaign in East Liverpool will take place at the Ceramic theatre Friday evening, October 24, when Harry L. Davis, Cleveland, G. O. P. gubernatorial nominee, and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Pittsburgh, will be the speakers.

Jefferson county Republicans will come to this city in a special interurban car over the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company's lines to take part in the rally. This arrangement was made after it had been found necessary to cancel Mr. Davis' proposed visit to Steubenville, this being the only opportunity Jefferson county people will have of hearing the gubernatorial candidate.

Republican meetings will also be held at East Palestine, Lisbon, Wells, Salineville and Salem on October 24. Congressman Ralph Cole, Findlay, Congressman R. Frank Murphy of Steubenville, Miss Rose Morarity, of the state industrial commission, Percy Teltow, a member of Governor Davis' cabinet two years ago and among the prominent Republicans who will visit the county during the campaign, party leaders have been notified.

Secretary of Labor Davis is also scheduled to address a political rally in Salem next Friday.

HATCHET WEAPON

Restaurant Owner's

Blow.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Police in the entire metropolitan district, embracing New York City and outlying suburbs in New Jersey, Long Island and other nearby places, begin a search today for Chinese believed to have been imported from San Francisco to take part in the war between Hip Sing and on Leong Tong.

These men are believed to be wielders of hatchets, for many years the favorite weapon of the Chinese killer. They believe this because Ti Sing, aged Chinese restaurant proprietor, was found slain yesterday in Corona, Queensborough, his head severed by a blow from a hatchet. He was the eleventh Chinaman mysteriously killed in the last two weeks.

Hatchet-wielders imported. Redoubled precautions were taken in New York's Chinatown. In the belief that Tai Sing was a member of the On Leongs, one of the conflicting clans, police swarmed into Chinatown today to learn, if possible, who the killers were. They found nothing as usual. They arrested several Chinese, however, and found loaded pistols in the pockets of each.

Police based their belief that imported hatchet-wielders are here on account of a report from the West Coast that Chinese merchants had appealed to the Chinese Peace Society, the most powerful Chinese organization in the country, to prevent the migration.

Bad marksmanship of Chinese gunmen is believed to have been the reason for summoning of the hatchet men.

POLICE CHIEF

Due to faulty finger prints, a number of applications, filed by local veterans have been returned by the adjutant general's office. The local police department possesses special finger print equipment.

Ex-service men whose applications have been returned or those who have not yet made application are requested to call at the city hall any afternoon between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock for finger print work. The chief will assist in this work without charge.

THREE LIQUOR RUNNING BOATS SEIZED AFTER POLICE BATTLE

One Man Jumps Over-

$40,000 CARGO

Notorious Sachem
Among Vessels Held at New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—After a running, hand-to-hand battle in which a police machine gun awoke the early morning echoes of the lower bay, three rum running vessels, including the notorious Sachem, were captured today, their crew placed under arrest and their cargoes confiscated, in one instance, a single policeman leaped across eight feet of open water to effect the capture while the crew of five stood cowed in the hold. One of the crew leaped overboard. The ships and their cargoes are valued at $100,000. The Sachem, reported to be the fastest rum runner afloat because of her airplane motors, put up the stearnest resistance, twenty rounds of machine gun fire being used before she surrendered. As she was brought about in mute token of surrender, one of her crew leaped overboard rather than submit to arrest. He was presumed to have drowned.

Two Boats in Crash
As the man was disappearing over the side Policeman Toombs jumped from the deck of the police boat Gypsy into the midst of the startled rum runners and forced them to surrender at the point of a gun. Just as he effected the capture, the Sachem was badly rammed by the police boat, completing the demoralization of the smugglers. The craft is a sister ship of the infamous May, which was wrecked in a chase about two months ago.

The other boats captured by the raiders were the Raven and Sagitta, the latter first making use of a decoy ship to lead the police astray before making her dash for the Fort Hamilton shore. She was apprehended as she attempted to put to sea and her crew arrested. In all, eleven prisoners and 570 cases of whiskey and alcohol rounded up. The liquor was worth about $40,000 at bootleg prices.

Dr. Frank Fowler Will Occupy M. E. Pulpit on Sunday

He was to cross the Mississippi for an address in St. Louis, Ill., early this afternoon and to return here late for a night address. His schedule also called for a speech before Democratic committee workers.

The visit here virtually ended the nominee's western invasion. He will leave tonight for Nashville, Tenn., to pay a complimentary visit in appreciation of the "solid South" support. He will spend Sunday in seclusion at Nashville and make an address there Monday night. Dr. Biederwolf left Indianapolis, Ind., at 7:30 o'clock Friday night. Mrs. Biederwolf, who is visiting in Martinsville, Ind., will not reach East Liverpool for a few days.

Miss Wilma Davis, women's worker and accompanist, reached the city at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning, as per her schedule. She was greeted by a delegation of ministers and laymen headed by Dr. F. A. Dean, president of the East Liverpool Ministerial association.

Reception Committee.

Those in the party besides Dr. Dean were Dr. J. O. Campbell, Second United Presbyterian church; Rev. L. J. Davidson, First United Presbyterian church; Rev. F. H. O'Brien, First Baptist church; Rev. Mr. Smith, Anderson Methodist Episcopal church; James Heaton, advance representative of Dr. Biederwolf, and Harry Watkins.

Dr. Biederwolf and Miss Davis were taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Paulk, Sixth street, where Dr. Biederwolf's headquarters will be maintained during the campaign.

Ready for the campaign to begin Dr. Biederwolf immediately inquired of Mr. Heaton if any engagements had been made for him for Saturday. Advised that there were none, he declared: "Then I shall rest, unpack my trunk and get ready for the doings of Sunday. I am feeling fine. I regret not getting in on schedule time, but here I am, an hour or so late, but ready for the campaign."

Conference Arranged.
Contrary to the usual custom of evangelists, Dr. Biederwolf will not begin his campaign here until Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. Co-operating churches, accordingly, will hold their usual Sunday schools and morning services. A great throng, every indication points, will greet him at his initial meeting.

In advance of Dr. Biederwolf's sermon on Sunday night will be a fine song service by the combined big choir and orchestra. Mr. McEwan will sing. The introduction of the party members will follow.

Dr. Biederwolf will precede his formal appearance on Sunday night with

Dr. Fred E. Bennett Will Occupy Church Pulpit Here Sunday

Dr. Fred E. Bennett, Chicago, secretary of the Family Altar League, editor, author and lecturer and a member of the Biederwolf evangelistic party, will occupy the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

DAVIS' WESTERN TOUR NEAR END

Democrat Invades Trans-Mississippi Territory.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—John W. Davis invaded trans-Mississippi soil today to make his last personal appeal for votes in the middle west.

Marking his second visit to the state in the present campaign, Davis faced a busy program of speaking engagements. He was to cross the Mississippi for an address in St. Louis, Ill., early this afternoon and to return here late for a night address. His schedule also called for a speech before Democratic committee workers.

The visit here virtually ended the nominee's western invasion. He will leave tonight for Nashville, Tenn., to pay a complimentary visit in appreciation of the "solid South" support. He will spend Sunday in seclusion at Nashville and make an address there Monday night. His itinerary then will carry him to Louisville, Evansville, Ind., Cleveland and back to New York, where he will devote the

A conference in the afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church with cooperating church pastors and members of the revival campaign committee. Then all plans for the campaign will be outlined and all details made clear so that during subsequent weeks of his stay here a combined effort may be made to perform the work at hand.

At the same hour Director of music McEwan will hold the initial choral rehearsal of the campaign at the tabernacle. Then he will disclose the choral rules and his methods of conduct. In every way the organization will be made ready for the season of song that in the evening will precede the evangelist's sermon.

Monday Night Meeting.
Because there will be no afternoon service on Sunday, Dr. Biederwolf will hold a night meeting on Monday. Thereafter during the campaign Monday will be rest day, with no services.

Caretaker's Lodge.
To rush the completion of the seats workmen labored in the tabernacle both Tuesday and Friday nights. The caretaker's lodge in the southeast section of the building was erected on Saturday. From now on he will be domiciled within the building.

A quantity of coal was procured on Saturday and placed in easy access to the tabernacle, thus anticipating any bad weather that may ensue.

School boys on Saturday broke the wired cartons of shavings and quickly distributed them over the ground space in the tabernacle. All the necessary finishing touches were done and the big auditorium put in condition for the use intended for it.

Because of the grading process performed before the erection of the tabernacle, steps at the north side have been erected in the doorways from the alley, making descent easy of accomplishment.

When Billy Sunday was in Boston a few years ago Dr. Biederwolf, holding a meeting, the same town in Lawrence, Mass., had a tabernacle that was several feet longer than that used by the former ball player in the Hub City.

In his college days Dr. Biederwolf was a great athlete, which fact is easily discernible in his present active movements of body.

Twice he has taken long foreign tours that have put him on the far side of the world. He was one of the speakers at the World's International Sunday School convention in Tokyo, Japan in 1920.

Plan Leper Farm.
On one of his far Eastern trips he took upon himself the responsibility of caring for 42 lepers, he found in a section there. Following his trip around the world last year, he has been engaged in raising $50,000, with which to buy an island on which unfortunate lepers will be kept.

Dr. Biederwolf is the president of the International Christian Truth Investigating society, the president of the Family Altar league and the secretary of the National Federated Evangelistic commission.

Consistent successes have followed his evangelistic activities. In Lima, two years ago, more than 500 persons agreed to change their lives during a single day's service.

As many men in a theatre meeting moved forward following a sermon by him at Portland, Ore. "And those who went to scoff, remained to pray," asserted the writer, noting the fact.

Of him, an Illinois writer declares: "He ranks with such men as Gipsy Smith, the late Wilbur Chapman, H. A. Torrey and Billy Sunday. He possesses the learning of Torrey, the pathos of Smith, the geniality of Chapman and the fiery zeal and eloquence of Sunday."

A Wisconsin minister holds him to be of the type of Robert E. Speer and John R. Mott.

Affable and sympathetic in his demonstration, Dr. Biederwolf possesses an appealing personality, one that ingratiates and does not repel.

remainder of his campaign to winning the east.

Davis came here from Chicago, where he made five speeches in two days. He came away expressing confidence that his appeal for votes would roll up a sufficient Democratic majority in Chicago to carry Illinois into the Democratic column. In his last three speeches he addressed separately large meetings of Bohemians, Jews and Poles, while making a special appeal for support from the foreign-born on his "religious freedom" and "racial equality" pronouncements.

On his arrival here, Davis had a word of optimism from Missouri Democrats. He said he had found "no signs" of apathy anywhere in the Democratic ranks. "I have one sentence for the American people," he said. "The Democratic party offers them a government of common honesty, common courage and common justice while we hold on high as a guiding star those great principles of popular sovereignty and personal liberty which guarantee to every man, woman and child, whether Republican, Democrat or Socialist, the rights that make good the boast of every citizen that to be an American is greater than to be a king."

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf Will be Speaker at Ministerial Meet

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf who opens a six weeks' evangelistic campaign here Sunday, will address members of the Ministerial Association at their semi-monthly meeting in the Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Boston's Woman Mayoralty Candidate For Easier Divorce, Harder Marriage

Easier divorce and harder marriage; smokes for women, if they so desire, abolishment of slums; repeal of prohibition. These are some of the planks in the platform of Miss Mary V. King, who is running for mayor of Boston as an independent. Although it is not believed she can win, she is enlivening the campaign.

PARIS MOURNS DEAD NOVELIST

Nation Pays Tribute as Anatole France Goes to Grave.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—France bowed her head reverently today as the body of her master of letters, who had taken the name of his country for his own—Anatole France—was laid to rest in Neuilly cemetery.

It was a demonstration of sorrow eclipsing that attending the funeral of the beloved Sarah Bernhardt. Hundreds of thousands—nobles, intellectuals, and thousands of plain artisans, whose names would mean nothing but who had learned to love the venerable author, whose pen dipped acid or oil—lined the streets in the clear autumn sunshine of a beautiful Saturday afternoon.

Paris has seen no such crowd since Marshal Foch passed through the Arch of Triumph in the tremendous homecoming of July, 1919.

These thousands were still in a hush of grief, as they stood with heads bowed while the cortege moved from the black-draped Institute of Fine Arts to the cemetery. Mourners of the city, typifying a nation with bowed head and a feeling of loss in every part of the world, where books are read, thronged the banks of the Seine and the champs elysees as the cortege passed.

Squadrons of cavalry passed first, then troops of the Municipal guard, followed by a band. The slow measures of a dirge sounded clearly in the hush.

Members of the Academy Francaise in picturesque green embroidered uniforms, followed and the notables of government—President Doumergue, Premier Herriot and his entire cabinet, presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies, with gray-bearded octogenarian senators, and friends of the writer.

At this service, Rev. L. I. Davidson, pastor of the church, will preach on "Harp Strings and Heart Strings." There will be no evening preaching service, but Sunday school will meet at the usual hour.

Slayer of Pretty Teacher Believed to Have Killed Self

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 18.—After a night spent in a man-hunt for the alleged slayer of pretty Molly Fleming, country school teacher, authorities believed today that the man had ended his life in some secluded spot. Miss Fleming was found in a wooded shed in the rear of the school house, her head split with an ax. Officers are searching for a man, spurned sweetheart of Miss Fleming, who was seen near the school.

Miss Henrietta Defelt, a former pupil of Miss Fleming, was visiting the school when the slaying occurred. According to her story, Ebert Dykes, 34, rejected suitor for Miss Fleming's affections, was seen near the wooded shed. Dykes' automobile was found abandoned a few miles from the school house shortly after the murder.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Under the stimulus of a strong market for railroad stocks, the whole market advanced moderately in the short session today. Motor and specialty stocks were pushed ahead by a strong buying movement, of which a good part represented accumulation for the long account. Railroad stocks continued to attract attention because of the general feeling that the heads of the large eastern railroad systems will work more vigorously on the amalgamating of a number of transportation lines into four large systems, headed by the Nickel Plate, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio. Moderate rains were made in New York Central, New Haven, Atchafalaya, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Southern railway and others.

American Waterworks, East Iron Pipe and Specialty stocks in this group made sharp advances in the early trading. American Water Works gained 44 points at 118 in further response to the action of the directors in reducing the par value to $20 and splitting the stock five for one. The fractional shares sold up to 24 on the curb market. General Electric at 249, was up about 4 points. Iron products and Universal Pipe stock showed the effect of plan for consolidating the former into the latter. Iron Products at 50 was up five points and Universal Pipe preferred at 54 1/2 up 7 points from Tuesday's low.

Motor and Accessory stocks made further response to the improved prospects for the motor trade. Studebaker sold at 39 1/2 up 1 1/2 from Friday's low and Stewart-Warner continued its "come back" with a raise of 1 point to 54 1/2.

Oil stocks as a rule were inactive and not disposed to join in the rally in prices, though Marland, Phillips and the Pan-American under a small turnover gained half a point. Coppers were strong and sugar stocks steady. Week end trade reviews were generally favorable, pointing good signs of trade revival both in America and Europe.

gas tank was empty, and police had rebuffed their search of houses at that vicinity in the hope of finding some trace of the men sought.

Earlier in the day, two men on their way to work found the gun with which Hahnel was shot as well as the officer's own weapon, wrapped in a towel lying in the gutter of a street near the scene of the crime.

Meager descriptions of the two men were furnished by Hahnel and his fellow officer. One man was described as being about 30 years of age, five feet eight inches tall, light complexion, weight 130 pounds. He wore a dark suit and cap.

His companion was about 25, five feet six inches tall and weighed about 130 pounds. His complexion is dark and he was wearing a dark suit.

Madge Evans HATS for Little Ladies

A Profusion of Style in These Madge Evans Hats

To start you off to school or to grace your early Fall Sunday and party dress, there are adorable combinations in Felt, Ribbon, Georgette Crepe, smart Suede leathers, Duveltyns, Polaires and Broadcloths all enriched with the most novel trimmings.

Sometimes a girl's entire life's happiness depends on the start she has at school. Some girls are favorites with their teachers, the center of the "nicest crowd." Other girls seem never to have friends. They grow reticent, backward and lack self-confidence.

Sincere friendships fostered in childhood are firm stepping stones to a happier girl-hood and if parents only realized how good, sensible, well-chosen clothes help a girl to popularity! If mothers only knew how teachers and school-mates alike are drawn to the happy-demeanored, prettily dressed girl, with her face framed in an adorable hat!

Then every mother would start each season by buying her daughter Madge Evans hats.

Show mother the hats you like best and suggest to her that it will be most satisfactory for her and you to visit this store early in the season, so she can help you choose your Madge Evans hat without hurry.

We have so many lovely models that will just suit the girl from 6 to 14 years of age. They are made in lovely shades of tan, red, copen, brown, navy and the ever-popular black. Priced from $4.50 to $8.00.

A few of the new Fall models are listed below:

Felice—A velvet poke made adorably with row on row of tri-colored pleated ribbon to charm the front.

Ellen—A becoming duveltyne poke. Two-toned ribbon graces the smart flange.

Arline—Embroidered squares, two-toned piped ribbon on crown and edge of brim. All done for prettiness sake.

Cleo, Bebe, Viola, Carolyn, Frolicsome Fall, Janette, Inza and Sleigh Bells are a few of the other models on display in our Children's department, second floor.

remainder of his campaign to winning the east.

Davis came here from Chicago, where he made five speeches in two days. He came away expressing confidence that his appeal for votes would roll up a sufficient Democratic majority in Chicago to carry Illinois into the Democratic column. In his last three speeches he addressed separately large meetings of Bohemians, Jews and Poles, while making a special appeal for support from the foreign-born on his "religious freedom" and "racial equality" pronouncements.

On his arrival here, Davis had a word of optimism from Missouri Democrats. He said he had found "no signs" of apathy anywhere in the Democratic ranks. "I have one sentence for the American people," he said. "The Democratic party offers them a government of common honesty, common courage and common justice while we hold on high as a guiding star those great principles of popular sovereignty and personal liberty which guarantee to every man, woman and child, whether Republican, Democrat or Socialist, the rights that make good the boast of every citizen that to be an American is greater than to be a king."

PARIS MOURNS DEAD NOVELIST

Nation Pays Tribute as Anatole France Goes to Grave.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—France bowed her head reverently today as the body of her master of letters, who had taken the name of his country for his own—Anatole France—was laid to rest in Neuilly cemetery.

It was a demonstration of sorrow eclipsing that attending the funeral of the beloved Sarah Bernhardt. Hundreds of thousands—nobles, intellectuals, and thousands of plain artisans, whose names would mean nothing but who had learned to love the venerable author, whose pen dipped acid or oil lined the streets in the clear autumn sunshine of a beautiful Saturday afternoon.

Paris has seen no such crowd since Marshal Foch passed through the Arch of Triumph in the tremendous homecoming of July, 1919.

These thousands were still in a hush of grief, as they stood with heads bowed while the cortege moved from the black-draped Institute of Fine Arts to the cemetery. Mourners of the city, typifying a nation with bowed head and a feeling of loss in every part of the world, where books are read, thronged the banks of the Seine and the champs elysees as the cortege passed.

Squadrons of cavalry passed first, then troops of the Municipal guard, followed by a band. The slow measures of a dirge sounded clearly in the hush.

Members of the Academie Francaise in picturesque green embroidered uniforms, followed and the notables of government—President Doumergue, Premier Herriot and his entire cabinet, presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies, with gray-bearded octogenarian senators, and friends of the writer.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Under the stimulus of a strong market for railroad stocks, the whole market advanced moderately in the short session today. Motor and specialty stocks were pushed ahead by a strong buying movement, of which a good part represented accumulation for the long account. Railroad stocks continued to attract attention because of the general feeling that the heads of the large eastern railroad systems will work more vigorously on the amalgamating of a number of transportation lines into four large systems, headed by the Nickel Plate, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio. Moderate gains were made in New York Central, New Haven, Atchafalpa, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Southern railway and others.

American Waterworks, East Iron Pipe and Specialty stocks, in this group made sharp advances. In the early trading, American Waterworks gained 44 points at 115 in further response to the action of the directors in reducing the par value to $20 and splitting the stock five for one. The fractional shares sold up to 24 on the curb market. General Electric at 249 1/2 was up about 4 points. Iron products and Universal Pipe stock showed the effect of plan for consolidating the former into the latter. Iron Products at 50 was up five points and Universal Pipe preferred at 54 1/2 up 7 points from Tuesday's low.

Motor and Accessory stocks made further response to the improved prospects for the motor trade. Studebaker sold at 39 1/2 up 1 1/2 from Friday's low and Stewart Warner continued its "come back" with a raise of 1 point to 54 1/2.

Oil stocks as a rule were inactive and not disposed to join in the rally in prices, though Marland, Phillips and the Pan-American under a small turnover gained half a point. Coppers were strong and sugar stocks steady.

Week end trade reviews were generally favorable, reporting good signs of trade revival both in America and Europe.

gas tank was empty, and police had reloaded their search of houses in that vicinity in the hope of finding some trace of the men sought.

Earlier in the day, two men on their way to work found the gun with which Hahnel was shot as well as the officer's own weapon, wrapped in a towel lying in the gutter of a street near the scene of the crime.

Meager descriptions of the two men were furnished by Hahnel and his fellow officer. One man was described as being about 30 years of age, 5 feet eight inches tall, light complexion, weight 130 pounds. He wore a dark suit and cap.

His companion was about 25, about five feet six inches tall and weighed about 130 pounds. His complexion is dark and he was wearing a dark suit.

The chase closely resembles that of patrolman Dennis Griffin, of the Cleveland police force, murdered in an auto by John Leonard Whitfield, now serving a life term in the Ohio penitentiary.

Among the items at a recent fur auction sale in Winnipeg, Canada, were 4,000 wolf and 600 lynx skins.

A Profusion of Style in These Madge Evans Hats

To start you off to school or to grace your early Fall Sunday and party dress, there are adorable combinations in felt, ribbon, Georgette crepe, smart suede leathers, Duveltyns, Polaires and Broadcloths all enriched with the most novel trimmings.

Sometimes a girl's entire life's happiness depends on the start she has at school. Some girls are favorites with their teachers, the center of the "nicest crowd." Other girls seem never to have friends. They grow reticent, backward and lack self-confidence.

Sincere friendships fostered in childhood are firm stepping stones to a happier girlhood and if parents only realized how good, sensible, well-chosen clothes help a girl to popularity! If mothers only knew how teachers and schoolmates alike are drawn to the happy-demeanored, prettily dressed girl, with her face framed in an adorable hat!

Then every mother would start each season by buying her daughter Madge Evans hats.

Show mother the hats you like best and suggest to her that it will be most satisfactory for her and you to visit this store early in the season, so she can help you choose your Madge Evans hat without hurry.

We have so many lovely models that will just suit the girl from 6 to 14 years of age. They are made in lovely shades of tan, red, copen, brown, navy and the ever-popular black. Priced from $4.50 to $8.00.

A few of the new Fall models are listed below:
Felice—A velvet poke made adorably with row on row of tri-colored pleated ribbon to charm the front.

Ellen—A becoming duveltyne poke. Two-toned ribbon graces the smart flange.

Arline—Embroidered squares, two-toned piped ribbon on crown and edge of brim. All done for prettiness sake.

Cleo, Bebe, Viola, Carolyn, Frolicsome Fall, Janette, Inza and Sleight Bells are a few of the other models on display in our Children's department, second floor.

Look, then, to your kidneys! Once the kidneys slow up in their work of filtering the blood, impurities accumulate and cause slow poisoning of the whole system. Then comes backache, rheumatic twinges, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

Don't wait! Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

I had to get up several times during the night to pass the kidney secretions and I had spells of dizziness. I heard so many praise Doan's Pills that I got a box. The Result of Specialization In Refining ONE Crude

AN unbiased oil authority and editor publishes the statement that the best refiners today, the refiners making the highest quality lubricants, are independent refiners in Western Pennsylvania who have had years of experience refining one particular grade of crude—paraffin base crude. He states that they are able to obtain quality and uniformity because they do not take in all kinds and all grades of crudes.

The Freedom Oil Works Company, an independent refinery, was established in 1879. This concern, since its inception, has refined Pennsylvania Grade Crude. Freedom Perfect is the result of forty-five years experience and is the last word in quality and is uniformly perfect.

Freedom Perfect is sold by dealers who recognize the growing demand for this perfect lubricant. It is used by every motorist who wants the most in motor oils made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude.

Get Back in Trim!

Do you get up these autumn mornings lame, stiff and aching? Drag through the day with a constantly aching back? Evening find you all worn out—tired, nervous and discouraged?

Look, then, to your kidneys! Once the kidneys slow up in their work of filtering the blood, impurities accumulate and cause slow poisoning of the whole system. Then comes backache, rheumatic twinges, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

Don't wait! Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

D. F. Pollock, prop. grocery store, 393 W. 4th St., says: "I suffered with a lame back. Sharp pains caught me through my kidneys and for a moment I couldn't move, the pain was so severe. I had to get up several times during the night to pass the kidney secretions and I had spells of dizziness. I heard so many praise Doan's Pills that I got a box. After using this one box I was fixed up in fine shape."

Pennsylvania Seeks To Abandon Its Moultrie Agency

An agency station at Moultrie, in the western section of Columbiana county, will cease to exist, if the public utilities commission approves an application of the Pennsylvania railroad company.

The Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad, which passes through the village, filed an application with the commission Thursday, asking for permission to change the stop to a non-agency station. It was contended in the application that the business no longer warranted the continuance of a station.

Moultrie is situated on the main line between Alliance and Bayard.

The Result of Specialization In Refining ONE Crude

AN unbiased oil authority and editor publishes the statement that the best refiners today, the refiners making the highest quality lubricants, are independent refiners in Western Pennsylvania who have had years of experience refining one particular grade of crude—paraffin base crude. He states that they are able to obtain quality and uniformity because they do not take in all kinds and all grades of crudes.

The Freedom Oil Works Company, an independent refinery, was established in 1879. This concern, since its inception, has refined Pennsylvania Grade Crude. Freedom Perfect is the result of forty-five years experience and is the last word in quality and is uniformly perfect.

Freedom Perfect is sold by dealers who recognize the growing demand for this perfect lubricant. It is used by every motorist who wants the most in motor oils made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1924.

Last Day of Registration

Today is the last day of registration for the November 4 election.

Electors, who neglected to qualify on October 2, 9 or 17, must qualify before 10 o'clock tonight, if they desire to safeguard their right to a voice in the selection of a president, state, district and county officials.

Registration places in the city's 21 precincts will be open from 5 to 10 o'clock tonight for the purpose of enrolling men and women who are 21 years of age or who will be 21 on or before election day.

At least 2,000 voters, it is estimated, have failed to place their names on the registrars' books. Their last opportunity to do so is tonight.

Registration is a duty as well as a privilege. It is necessary in order to perform your obligation as a citizen on election day.

U. S. Weddings in Europe

Marry in London and repent in Paris seems to be the present American arrangement abroad, except that the persons who secure divorces in Paris are not necessarily the ones who have signed up for matrimony in England's capital. It appears to be true, however, that London has just enjoyed a tremendously successful American marriage season during the past summer. In three months, so the report goes, more than 2,000 couples from the United States have been married in London.

Two famous old churches, St. George's, Hanover Square, and St. Margaret's, Westminster, have been the favorites most patronized for this purpose. Young American bridegrooms have paid as high as 25 pounds for special licenses.

It would require further research to determine the cause of this American marriage rush in London. Possibly the participating couples are simply young Americans whose work takes them abroad and who marry there as they would here, because it is the convenient place to do so. At any rate, it is consoling to those citizens back home who have been a little ashamed of the American divorces in Paris to learn that some of their fellow-countrymen are making a better sort of record in London.

Silver Money

Don't be surprised if your banker, some day, when you step up to the window to cash a check, shovels you out a few pounds of silver dollars. It is now regarded as good banking policy to encourage the circulation of silver. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has asked the American Bankers' association to do this.

The purchase of the treasury department is improvement of the currency. There has been an enormous demand for paper money, especially paper dollars, of which the government has to print and put into circulation 48,000,000 a month. The silver dollars in circulation have decreased from 84,000,000 to 54,000,000 in five years. The paper wears out rapidly, and its replacement is expensive. The silver stands wear and lasts indefinitely. If the public would only use more silver and fewer paper dollars, Secretary Mellon says, the treasury could accumulate a surplus of currency and make that currency of better quality.

It is a sound banking argument. There is just as good an argument on the score of hygiene. Yet the bankers are swimming against the current. An effete civilization does not like to carry around weighty metal for money.

Aluminum, now, with some alloy to harden it—that might be different.

FOR PINKSTON, $2,561.35.

Readers who contributed to a fund for Pinkston will be glad to know that the money contributed, $2,561.35, is now deposited to Pinkston's credit in the Bowers Savings bank in New York at his request.

The money was deposited originally in the Banca Commerciale Italiana in New York.

ONLY A NAME

On the grave of Anatole France, nothing is written except "Anatole France, 1844-1924." Fortunate and few are men whose names alone are sufficient epitaph. The Persian conqueror could order written on his tomb, "I Am Cyrus, Oh Man," with fewer than 10 words about his worth, trusting history to supply details.

Archimedes needed no name at all. On his tomb, when Cicero found it in Sicily, there was only the figure of a sphere inscribed in cylinder. Mathematicians would know the meaning of that. Archimedes cared little about others. But a majority of the so-called "great" need full explanation. A few years, then "Anatole France, 1844-1924" will mean nothing. One French name, "Villon," on the other hand, will identify real genius for a thousand years to come.

WORKS, WITHOUT FAITH

The Protestant Episcopalians of New York are making an earnest drive to get $15,000,000 for a great cathedral. Mr. Wickersham, much interested, says "The same methods must be employed as in the middle ages."

But it was the faith, not the methods, that built the world's really great cathedral. It was the faith of old painters that created beautiful Madonnas. Faith without works amounts to little. Works without faith in the religious field, amount to even less.

GREAT AIRBOAT

An inspiring sight was that great German air boat, shining like polished silver in the sun's light, sailing over New York city early Wednesday morning. That flight across the ocean in three days is a tribute to man's genius. A race capable of such achievement will learn eventually to end war.

Soon European trips by airships will be regular routine, attracting as little attention as an automobile bus line.

Airships have come to stay and will do all passenger carrying except for the shorter distances.

What a crime against civilization, and the genius of man, if the German plant that created that great flying machine should be destroyed by the French, insisting on the letter of the Versailles treaty. There should be some solution of "war danger" better than destruction of a great industry.

The German bonds sold instantly. Everything went through in theatrical fashion. Morgan & Co. announces that they could have sold a billion of the bonds. Doubtless they will sell a billion, several billions perhaps.

Germany intends to pay, and will, if other nations give her a chance. But one hostile movement toward the Ruhr by France, and the interest on the bonds would stop. The value would drop to 50, then lower. Germany meant to pay bonds that she sold here in wartime. They are worth less than the excellent paper on which they are printed. To be safe, invest in America.

A race horse called "Chilhowee" has broken the world's galloping record, covering a mile and one-eighth in one minute and 48.45 seconds. That would have been important once, now it is a mere incident in a gambling sport. Paul Revere today would ride in a small automobile, blowing his horn and waving with the "cutout" wide open. Or he would fly close to the ground in his little monoplane, or would stay at home or make the country side through the loud speaker in every house. The running speed of a horse is as unimportant today as the flying speed of a falcon that was important once.

Jackie Coogan celebrated his birthday in Vienna yesterday. Notables solemnly dressed attended his reception. It must interest the Viennese to reflect that the small American boy whose mother complains of lack of "good American breakfast food" could do a great deal, by his own earnings, to help Austria in her financial trouble.

DINNER STORIES

Seeing the doctor passing, Mrs. Fluddub called him in and inquired, "Have you a kit of medicine suitable for apoplexy?"

"Why, yes, I think so," answered the doctor.

"Kindly be seated," said the woman.

"But where is the case of apoplexy?"

"It will happen in a minute."

"I don't understand," said the puzzled physician.

"As soon as my husband comes in I am going to ask him for a little extra money."

The eminent novelist was staying in a tiny out-of-the-way village in order to study the life and habits of the rural folk. One morning, while out for a stroll in the sunshine, he happened to meet one of the two local postmen. This particular man had to walk nearly 20 miles every day in order to get through his district, which consisted of a very scattered district indeed.

After a few questions the novelist ascertained that the postman had delivered letters on the same round for over 50 years, excepting during a fortnight's holiday each year.

"Oh," exclaimed the novelist, "what a change a fortnight's holiday in the year must be for you after your tedious work. Tell me, how do you spend it?"

"Well," answered the postman, "having almost nothing to do at home, I go the round with the other man."

Two young women, evidently strangers to each other, were seated at the same table in a popular restaurant. One of them had finished her lunch; the other was about to begin.

The girl who had finished sat back in her chair and lit a cigarette.

The other seemed to resent this and said, "I suppose you do not object to my eating while you are smoking?"

The first girl looked at her and answered brightly: "Well, no, not so long as I can hear the orchestra."

The harassed-looking man was rushing hither and thither round the store in a state of wild excitement. He went up to the top floor and down to the basement.

Finally, he had arrived on the ground floor, looking hot and flushed, when he was approached by a polite floorwalker.

"Are you looking for something in men's clothing?" inquired that individual politely.

"No, no," roared the excited one; "not men's clothing—women's clothing! I've lost my wife!"

Two workmen were wheeling dirt in wheelbarrows. The boss went up to one of them and said: "Look here, you! Your mate's wheeling four wheelbarrows loads to your end!"

"Well," snarled the workman, "don't blame me, I've told him about it half a dozen times already."

The Village Half-Wit Solves a Political Problem. — By Fontaine Fox

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By MICHAEL F. DACEY.

DENVER, Oct. 18.—Government hunters of predatory animals are feeding strychnine to these pests after the fashion adopted by mothers who are forced to feed children castor oil with some sort of sugar coating.

In its fight against wolves, coyotes, mountain lions and other animals, the predatory animal control bureau of the United States biological survey has established a laboratory in Denver for the manufacture of poison that is used in exterminating the destructive wild animals.

Strychnine is used almost entirely by the government hunters in running to earth the vicious animals that destroy so much farm produce and kill domesticated stock on the ranges in the Rocky Mountain region, but the poison must be made palatable before the victims will touch it.

Exclusively for the purpose of manufacturing a poison concoction that the wolf, coyote and mountain lion will take rapidly, the government maintains its "poison factory" here, and special attention is paid in the manufacture to cater to the taste of the animals.

According to S. E. Piper, associate biologist in charge of the Denver laboratory, production of a palatable poison for predatory animals is the result of six years' experiment and research work and has developed a method of treating strychnine so it will not be distasteful to the animals. Administered in its raw form, the strychnine would be immediately spit out by the animals, Piper declares. And to overcome the natural bitter taste of the deadly poison, the laboratory turns out a capsule of strychnine encased in ox blood and other ingredients which causes the animal to swallow the poison without suspecting its presence in the tablet.

With its coating of ox blood the strychnine is distributed throughout the western country where campaigns are in progress to deplete the forces of predatory animals, save livestock from being destroyed and cut down the spread of rabies among coyotes.

In the last year the output of the local "poison factory" was approximately 80,000 ounces of ox blood coated strychnine.

"To the uninitiated the use of strychnine in fighting predatory animals may seem cruel," Piper said. "But it is not. The animal is dead within 20 minutes after the poison enters its stomach. They feel no ill effects after gulping down the poison bait until it produces a convulsion, which is followed by death—swift and painless."

Piper declared that strychnine was used in preference to arsenic, as the former is more easily controlled and much more effective. Also, he pointed out, fowl, such as turkeys, geese and other birds can consume considerable quantities of strychnine without feeling any bad effects. Arsenic, he said, is deadly poison to them as well as to hogs.

"For this reason," Piper declared, "the bureau has specialized on the development of a palatable strychnine, which, under proper supervision, can be distributed through the wild country in bait and used effectively in exterminating predatory animals that are so destructive to livestock and farming interests in the west."

WHO'S WHO

SIR PATRICK HASTINGS

Sir Patrick Hastings, K. C., the attorney general in the Labor government of England, is the man over whose action in the case of James R. Campbell, Communist editor, the storm broke which resulted in MacDonald's fall.

Speaking in the house during debate on the vote of censure against the Labor government, Sir Patrick declared that he regarded the vote as directed at him. His defense was that until the commons began to investigate the case he had considered it of minor importance; but that he had found that Campbell had a good war record, was wounded and decorated, and was now temporary editor of the "Workers' Weekly."

Born in 1880 and educated at Charterhouse, Sir Patrick followed the profession of mining engineer from 1898 to 1899. Subsequently he served in the South African war. In 1902 he turned to journalism, founding numerous publications and in 1904 he was called to the bar.

It was not until 1909 that he was appointed counsel to the king.

Count that day lost whose low descending sun finds no new murder trial begun.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—There is one of those leap and catch at the airdancers in a Broadway show who appears twice at each performance wearing a loin cloth. The rest of his anatomy is painted with a bronze colored preparation.

In the third act he wears a coating of peacock blue paint. He cavorts about the stage for about five minutes each time but so strenuous is his work under the circumstances that he has several times reached the wings in a swoon.

The body paint closes the pores. The physical torture is exhausting and two doctors have told him the part he is playing will in a very short while bring on a fatal stroke. He in turn says he has been 15 years reaching Broadway and would rather die than step out.

His action is an illuminating example of the lure of the spotlight. He is known only by a name on the program. His face is completely disguised by the paint and one in the audience would never recognize him off the stage.

The only compensation is the faint applause of the audience as he finishes his twirling and leaping. His salary is perhaps $75 a week. Any stage dancing school could furnish a substitute for him by telephone in 15 minutes.

Out of his salary he must pay an assistant who has the unusual job of painting his body with the mixture. It must be put on 45 minutes before he appears so that it thoroughly dries before he does his stuff.

There used to be a fellow who played the front end of a make believe lion in a musical show. There was only a slight peep-hole through which he saw and also breathed. The audience never saw him. He refused to abandon the suffocating role and developed an illness that killed him.

There is the tragic story of the small town stock company actor who tried for 10 years to land on Broadway. He was under-sized and had a cast in his eye. His fortitude won the sympathy of a producer and he was given the role of the sewer rat in "Seventh Heaven." He played for only a few weeks when the ravages of malnutrition from which he had suffered in his desire to reach Broadway caused him to collapse in his dressing room one night. Three days later he died in a hospital. He had achieved Broadway, although his role was only that of a worker in filthy clothes climbing out of a Paris sewer, but he passed away content. He had "made" Broadway.

This actor, by the way, came from a little town on the Ohio river four miles above where I was raised. When I was a boy he appeared on river show boats and later I ran across him now and then in small repertoire companies. He was a self-effacing, kindly fellow, temperate and religiously inclined. It is difficult to imagine the most ephemeral of all worldly glories enticed him to such a calamitous end. His name was Fred Holloway.

There are at least 50 stockbrokers who have lately opened offices in the White Light district. Broadway has its little Wall Street. Many employers are complaining that their employees are not only emulating their offices—but their pockets—to play the market. Instead of eating at the lunch hour they watch the ticker.

UNSETTLED REPARATION PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—Unsettled aspects of the reparation problem are discussed in an informative and interesting way by Director G. Moulton, of the institute of economics, in a report recently published by the institute, and the general public in this country will be surprised to learn that some of the unsettled matters are decidedly important.

For instance, few people realize that it has not as yet been definitely determined just how much Germany is to pay in reparations, or how much she has already paid. The reparation commission was given no authority to fix the total sum to be paid. It is insisted by the allies that the total amount owed by Germany was settled once and for all in 1921 and set forth in the London agreement. This was the present worth of a capital sum amounting to 132 billion gold marks, minus credits for payments heretofore made for reparation, plus the German war debt estimated at four billions and plus certain other obligations incidental to the fulfillment of the treaty.

This amount can be reduced legally only by the reparation commission itself, although it is to be expected that the governments which the commission serves will have the real decision in the matter.

But Mr. Moulton makes the startling statement that as matters now stand Germany would have to make payments perpetually and still go deeper into debt with every year that passes.

If the sum fixed in the London agreement stands as the total of Germany's obligation, then the schedule of payments provided for under the reparation plan will have to be continued until the present worth of the capital sum has been paid. However, the annual payments decreed possible and provided for under the plan—two and a half billions—do not actually cover the 8 per cent interest and sinking fund charge on even the 50 billions of A and B bonds contemplated in the London agreement, to say nothing of meeting the interest on the new international loan to Germany.

Thus with unpaid interest piling up every year it will be seen that the total German obligation will increase from year to year rather than decrease.

WHAT MUST BE DONE

"If Germany is to be afforded any hope for an eventual liquidation of her indebtedness," says Mr. Moulton, "and unless such hope is given neither the Germans nor any other people can be expected to work wholeheartedly toward meeting the obligations, one or the other of two things is required."

"Either the total debt must be scaled down to a sum that would make possible its eventual liquidation out of the annual instalments provided in the experts' plan, or the number of years over which this plan is to run must be fixed."

It is pointed out that 25 billion gold marks would pay 3 per cent interest on 42 billions and also provide a sinking fund that would pay off the principal in approximately 35 years. However, since Germany's annual payment depends essentially upon her export surplus, which is something that cannot be reliably estimated or predicted, it is possible that to pay even 42 billions would require a much longer period than 35 years.

Mr. Moulton suggests as an equitable or practical solution that Germany be required to pay each year the full amount of whatever export surplus she is able to develop, or such amounts as the allies are willing to receive, for a definite term of years. Any system which attempts to hold generation after generation of Germans in economic bondage will inevitably defeat itself, in his judgment, and there must be a termination point somewhere within a visible time or long sustained co-operation on the part of the German people cannot possibly be secured. This vital question, it is contended, must be settled before the reparation plan can be put into successful operation.

WHAT GERMANY HAS PAID

As to the credits Germany is entitled to on account of payments heretofore made, the records of the reparation commission show a total of slightly more than eight billion gold marks, while Germany claims that she has paid in all more than 56 billions. The institute of economics after careful investigation reached the conclusion that the German estimates were too high and the commission's figures too low, and suggests that another committee of experts be created to settle this question once and for all.

Manifestly there can be no adjustment of the controversy as to what Germany still owes until it has been determined definitely how much she has already paid. Nor is it to be expected that the Germans will co-operate in working out the reparation plan if they feel that they have not had a square deal in the matter of giving them credit for what they have already surrendered in discharging their treaty obligations.

The institute's experts have estimated that up to two years ago Germany turned over gold and assets of a value to her of 25 to 26 billion marks. It is to be noted that this figure about "splits the difference" between the German estimate and the amount shown on the books of the reparation commission.

Another thing that Director Moulton says should be settled at once is the adoption of the principle of arbitration as a means of adjusting all controversies growing out of the operation of the reparation plan. All penalties and sanctions as a means of enforcing reparation payments have heretofore availed nothing, and in the very nature of things they can avail nothing, he points out. No threat, no application of military pressure, no seizure of territory can accomplish what economic and social conditions render impossible.

"The sole reliance must be placed upon the establishment of a workable plan and the creation of good will on the part of all concerned," says Mr. Moulton.

Many controversies will, of course, arise in connection with the administration of the plan and no little friction may be expected to develop, even if all parties concerned are imbued with the best intentions. If bad faith and ill-will persist, these controversies will of course be much more serious.

"Such questions cannot, however, be settled by the application of force. The whole plan can be wrecked within a year and the existing chaos perpetuated if a new spirit is not made to permeate the administration of the problem and if some means of adjudicating disputes rather than the application of military force is not provided."

This expert concedes the shortcomings of the arbitration method, but insists that no better means has ever been discovered for adjusting tangled human relations than to lay the matter in controversy before an impartial third person for decision.

Last Day of Registration

Today is the last day of registration for the November 4 election.

Electors, who neglected to qualify on October 2, 9 or 17, must qualify before 10 o'clock tonight, if they desire to safeguard their right to a voice in the selection of a president, state, district and county officials.

Registration places in the city's 21 precincts will be open from 5 to 10 o'clock tonight for the purpose of enrolling men and women who are 21 years of age or who will be 21 on or before election day.

At least 2,000 voters, it is estimated, have failed to place their names on the registrars' books. Their last opportunity to do so is tonight.

Registration is a duty as well as a privilege. It is necessary in order to perform your obligation as a citizen on election day.

U. S. Weddings in Europe

Marry in London and repent in Paris seems to be the present American arrangement abroad, except that the persons who secure divorces in Paris are not necessarily the ones who have signed up for matrimony in England's capital. It appears to be true, however, that London has just enjoyed a tremendously successful American marriage season during the past summer. In three months, so the report goes, more than 2,000 couples from the United States have been married in London.

Two famous old churches, St. George's, Hanover Square, and St. Margaret's, Westminster, have been the favorites most patronized for this purpose. Young American bridegrooms have paid as high as 25 pounds for special licenses.

It would require further research to determine the cause of this American marriage rush in London. Possibly the participating couples are simply young Americans whose work takes them abroad and who marry there as they would here, because it is the convenient place to do so. At any rate, it is consoling to those citizens back home who have been a little ashamed of the American divorces in Paris to learn that some of their fellow-countrymen are making a better sort of record in London.

Silver Money

Don't be surprised if your banker, some day, when you step up to the window to cash a check, shovels you out a few pounds of silver dollars. It is now regarded as good banking policy to encourage the circulation of silver. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has asked the American Bankers' association to do this.

The purchase of the treasury department is improvement of the currency. There has been an enormous demand for paper money, especially paper dollars, of which the government has to print and put into circulation 48,000,000 a month. The silver dollars in circulation have decreased from 84,000,000 to 54,000,000 in five years. The paper wears out rapidly, and its replacement is expensive. The silver stands wear and lasts indefinitely. If the public would only use more silver and fewer paper dollars, Secretary Mellon says, the treasury could accumulate a surplus of currency and make that currency of better quality.

It is a sound banking argument. There is just as good an argument on the score of hygiene. Yet the bankers are swimming against the current. An effete civilization does not like to carry around weighty metal for money.

Aluminum, now, with some alloy to harden it—that might be different.

ONLY A NAME

On the grave of Anatole France, 1844-1924. Fortunate and few are men whose names alone are sufficient epitaph. The Persian conqueror could order written on his tomb, "I Am Cyrus, Oh Man," with fewer than 10 words about his worth, trusting history to supply details.

Archimedes needed no name at all. On his tomb, when Cicero found it in Sicily, there was only the figure of a sphere inscribed in cylinder. Mathematicians would know the meaning of that. Archimedes cared little about others. But a majority of the so-called "great" need full explanation. A few years, then "Anatole France, 1844-1924" will mean nothing. One French name, "Villon," on the other hand, will identify real genius for a thousand years to come.

WORKS, WITHOUT FAITH

The Protestant Episcopalians of New York are making an earnest drive to get $15,000,000 for a great cathedral. Mr. Wickesham, much interested, says "The same methods must be employed as in the middle ages."

But it was the faith, not the methods, that built the world's really great cathedral. It was the faith of old painters that created beautiful Madonnas. Faith without works amounts to little. Works without faith in the religious field, amount to even less.

GREAT AIRBOAT

An inspiring sight was that great German air boat, shining like polished silver in the sun's light, sailing over New York city early Wednesday morning. That flight across the ocean in three days is a tribute to man's genius. A race capable of such achievement will learn eventually to end war.

Soon European trips by airships will be regular routine, attracting as little attention as an automobile bus line.

Airships have come to stay and will do all passenger carrying except for the shorter distances.

What a crime against civilization, and the genius of man, if the German plant that created that great flying machine should be destroyed by the French, insisting on the letter of the Versailles treaty. There should be some solution of "war danger" better than destruction of a great industry.

The German bonds sold instantly. Everything went through in theatrical fashion. Morgan & Co. announced that they could have sold a billion of the bonds. Doubtless they will sell a billion, several billions perhaps.

Germany intends to pay, and will, if other nations give her a chance. But one hostile movement toward the Ruhr by France, and the interest on the bonds would stop. The value would drop to 50, then lower. Germany meant to pay bonds that she sold here in wartime. They are worth less than the excellent paper on which they are printed. To be safe, invest in America.

A race horse called "Chilhowee" has broken the world's galloping record, covering a mile and one-eighth in one minute and 48.45 seconds. That would have been important once, now it's a mere incident in a gambling sport. Paul Revere today would ride in a small automobile, blowing his horn as he went with the "cutout" wide open. Or he would fly close to the ground in his little monoplane, or would stay at home or make the country side through the loud speaker in every house. The running speed of a horse is as unimportant today as the flying speed of a falcon that was important once.

Jackie Coogan celebrated his birthday in Vienna yesterday. Notables solemnly dressed attended his reception. It must interest the Viennese to reflect that the small American boy whose mother complains of lack of "good American breakfast food" could do a great deal, by his own earnings, to help Austria in her financial trouble.

DINNER STORIES

Seeing the doctor passing, Mrs. Flubdub called him in and inquired, "Have you a kit of medicine suitable for apoplexy?"

"Why, yes, I think so," answered the doctor.

"Kindly be seated," said the woman.

"But where is the case of apoplexy?"

"It will happen in a minute."

"I don't understand," said the puzzled physician.

"As soon as my husband comes in I am going to ask him for a little extra money."

The eminent novelist was staying in a tiny out-of-the-way village in order to study the life and habits of the rural folk. One morning, while out for a stroll in the sunshine, he happened to meet one of the two local postmen. This particular man had to walk nearly 20 miles every day in order to get through his round, which consisted of a very scattered district indeed.

After a few questions the novelist ascertained that the postman had delivered letters on the same round for over 50 years, excepting during a fortnight's holiday each year.

"Oh," exclaimed the novelist, "what a change a fortnight's holiday in the year must be for you after your tedious work. Tell me, how do you spend it?"

"Well," answered the postman, "having almost nothing to do at home, I go the round with the other man."

Two young women, evidently strangers to each other, were seated at the same table in a popular restaurant. One of them had finished her lunch; the other was about to begin.

The girl who had finished sat back in her chair and lit a cigarette.

The other seemed to resent this and said, "I suppose you do not object to my eating while you are smoking?"

The first girl looked at her and answered brightly: "Well, no, not so long as I can hear the orchestra."

The harassed-looking man was rushing hither and thither round the store in a state of wild excitement. He went up to the top floor and down to the basement.

Finally, he had arrived on the ground floor, looking hot and flushed, when he was approached by a polite floorwalker.

"Are you looking for something in men's clothing?" inquired that individual politely.

"No, no," roared the excited one; "not men's clothing—women's clothing! I've lost my wife!"

Two workmen were wheeling dirt in wheelbarrows. The boss went up to one of them and said:

"Look here, you! Your mate's wheeling four wheelbarrows loads to your one!"

"No," snarled the workman, "don't blame me. I've told him about it half a dozen times already."

The Village Half-Wit Solves a Political Problem. — By Fontaine Fox

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By MICHAEL F. DACEY.

DENVER, Oct. 18.—Government hunters of predatory animals are feeding strychnine to these pests after the fashion adopted by mothers who are forced to feed children castor oil with some sort of sugar coating.

In its fight against wolves, coyotes, mountain lions and other animals, the predatory animal control bureau of the United States biological survey has established a laboratory in Denver for the manufacture of poison that is used in exterminating the destructive wild animals.

Strychnine is used almost entirely by the government hunters in running to earth the vicious animals that destroy so much farm produce and kill domesticated stock on the ranges in the Rocky Mountain region; but the poison must be made palatable before the victims will touch it.

Exclusively for the purpose of manufacturing a poison concoction that the wolf, coyote and mountain lion will take rapidly, the government maintains its "poison factory" here, and special attention is paid in the manufacture to cater to the taste of the animals.

According to S. E. Piper, associate biologist in charge of the Denver laboratory, production of a palatable poison for predatory animals is the result of six years' experiment and research work and has developed a method of treating strychnine so it will not be distasteful to the animals. Administered in its raw form, the strychnine would be immediately spit out by the animals, Piper declares. And to overcome the natural bitter taste of the deadly poison, the laboratory turns out a capsule of strychnine encased in ox blood and other ingredients which causes the animal to swallow the poison without suspecting its presence in the bait.

With its coating of ox blood the strychnine is distributed throughout the western country where campaigns are in progress to deplete the forces of predatory animals, save livestock from being destroyed and cut down the spread of rabies among coyotes.

In the last year the output of the local "poison factory" was approximately 80,000 ounces of ox blood coated strychnine.

"To the uninitiated the use of strychnine in fighting predatory animals may seem cruel," Piper said. "But it is not. The animal is dead within 20 minutes after the poison enters its stomach. They feel no ill effects after gulping down the poison bait until it produces a convulsion, which is followed by death—swift and painless."

Piper declared that strychnine was used in preference to arsenic, as the former is more easily controlled and much more effective. Also, he pointed out, fowl, such as turkeys, grouse and other birds can consume considerable quantities of strychnine without feeling any bad effects. Arsenic, he said, is deadly poison to them as well as to hogs.

"For this reason," Piper declared, "the bureau has specialized on the development of a palatable strychnine, which, under proper supervision, can be distributed through the wild country in bait and used effectively in exterminating predatory animals that are so destructive to livestock and farming interests in the west."

WHO'S WHO

SIR PATRICK HASTINGS

Sir Patrick Hastings, K. C., the attorney general in the Labor government of England, is the man over whose action in the case of James R. Campbell, Communist editor, the storm broke which resulted in MacDonald's fall.

Speaking in the house during debate on the vote of censure against the Labor government, Sir Patrick declared that he regarded the vote as directed at him. His defense was that until the commons began to investigate the case he had considered it of minor importance; but that he had found that Campbell had a good war record, was wounded and decorated, and was now temporary editor of the "Workers' Weekly."

Born in 1880 and educated at Charterhouse, Sir Patrick followed the profession of mining engineer from 1898 to 1899. Subsequently he served in the South African war. In 1902 he turned to journalism, issuing numerous publications and in 1904 he was called to the bar.

It was not until 1909 that he was appointed counsel to the king.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—There is one of those leap and catch at the airlanders in a Broadway show who appears twice at each performance wearing a loin cloth. The rest of his anatomy is painted with a bronze colored preparation.

In the third act he wears a coating of peacock blue paint. He cavorts about the stage for about five minutes each time but so strenuous is his work under the circumstances that he has several times reached the wings in a swoon.

The body paint closes the pores. The physical torture is exhausting and two doctors have told him the part he is playing will in a very short while bring on a fatal stroke. He in turn says he has been 15 years reaching Broadway and would rather die than step out.

His action is an illuminating example of the lure of the spotlight. He is known only by a name on the program. His face is completely disguised by the paint and one in the audience would never recognize him off the stage.

The only compensation is the faint applause of the audience as he finishes his twirling and leaping. His salary is perhaps $75 a week. Any stage dancing school could furnish a substitute for him by telephone in 15 minutes.

Out of his salary he must pay an assistant who has the unusual job of painting his body with the mixture. It must be put on 45 minutes before he appears so that it thoroughly dries before he does his stuff.

There used to be a fellow who played the front end of a make believe lion in a musical show. There was only a slight peep-hole through which he saw and also breathed. The audience never saw him. He refused to abandon the suffocating role and developed an illness that killed him.

Then there is the tragic story of the small town stock company actor who tried for 10 years to land on Broadway. He was under-sized and had a cast in his eye. His fortitude won the sympathy of a producer and he was given the role of the sewer rat in "Seventh Heaven." He played for only a few weeks when the ravages of malnutrition from which he had suffered in his desire to reach Broadway caused him to collapse in his dressing room one night. Three days later he died in a hospital. He had achieved Broadway, although his role was only that of a worker in filthy clothes climbing out of a Paris sewer, but he passed away content. He had "made" Broadway.

This actor, by the way, came from a little town on the Ohio river four miles above where I was raised. When I was a boy he appeared on river show boats and later I ran across him now and then in small repertoire companies. He was a self-effacing, kindly fellow, temperate and religiously inclined. It is difficult to imagine the most ephemeral of all worldly glories enticed him to such a calamitous end. His name was Fred Holloway.

There are at least 50 stockbrokers who have lately opened offices in the White Light district. Broadway has its little Wall Street. Many employers are complaining that their employees are not only emptying their offices—but their pockets—to play the market. Instead of eating at the lunch hour they watch the ticker.

UNSETTLED REPARATION PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—Unsettled aspects of the reparation problem are discussed by an informative and interesting way by Director H. C. Moulton, of the institute of economics, in a report recently published by the institute, and the general public in this country will be surprised to learn that some of the unsettled matters are decidedly important.

For instance, few people realize that it has not as yet been definitely determined just how much Germany is to pay in reparations, or how much she has already paid. The reparation commission was given no authority to fix the total sum to be paid. It is insisted by the allies that the total amount owed by Germany was settled once and for all in 1921 and set forth in the London agreement. This was the present worth of a capital sum amounting to 132 billion gold marks, minus credits for payments heretofore made for reparation, plus the German war debt estimated at four billions and plus certain other obligations incidental to the fulfillment of the treaty.

This amount can be reduced legally only by the reparation commission itself, although it is to be expected that the governments which the commission serves will have the real decision in the matter.

But Mr. Moulton makes the startling statement that as matters now stand Germany would have to make payments perpetually and still go deeper into debt with every year that passes.

If the sum fixed in the London agreement stands as the total of Germany's obligation, then the schedule of payments provided for under the reparation plan will have to be continued until the present worth of the capital sum has been paid. However, the annual payments deemed possible and provided for under the plan—two and a half billions—do not actually cover the 5 per cent interest and sinking fund charge on even the 50 billions of the L. and B. bonds contemplated in the London agreement, to say nothing of meeting the interest on the new international loan to Germany.

Thus with unpaid interest piling up every year it will be seen that the total German obligation will increase from year to year rather than decrease.

WHAT MUST BE DONE

"If Germany is to be afforded any hope for an eventual liquidation of her indebtedness," says Mr. Moulton, "and unless such hope is given neither the Germans nor any other people can be expected to work wholeheartedly toward meeting the obligations, one or the other of two things is required."

"Either the total debt must be scaled down to a sum that would make possible its eventual liquidation out of the annual instalments provided in the experts' plan, or the number of years over which the plan is to run must be fixed."

It is pointed out that 2.5 billion gold marks would pay 5 per cent interest on 42 billions and also provide a sinking fund that would pay off the principal in approximately 35 years. However, since Germany's annual payment depends essentially upon her export surplus, which is something that cannot be reliably estimated or predicted, it is possible that to pay even 42 billions would require a much longer period than 35 years.

Mr. Moulton suggests as an equitable or practical solution that Germany be required to pay each year the full amount of whatever export surplus she is able to develop, or such amounts as the allies are willing to receive, for a definite term of years. Any system which attempts to hold generation after generation of Germans in economic bondage will inevitably defeat itself, in his judgment, and there must be a termination point somewhere within a visible time or long sustained cooperation on the part of the German people cannot possibly be expected. This vital question, it is contended, must be settled before the reparation plan can be put into successful operation.

RURAL SCHOOL TEACHERS MEET

Junior Red Cross Chapters Will Be Formed In County.

At a meeting of the rural school teachers of the county, scheduled to be held in the auditorium of the David Anderson high school at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, County Superintendent of Schools Leonard perfected plans for the organizing of Junior Red Cross chapters in all rural and village schools that come under the control of that office.

It has been declared that a wonderful work was performed by this class of Red Cross chapters last year, and the same task is to be duplicated this term of school.

The object of organizing these junior chapters is for the purpose of carrying on a local service program, which shall have the approval of the executive and Junior Red Cross committees of the local Red Cross chapter.

In organizing such a program, the educational value of the projects and their adaptability to the curriculum and equipment of the schools are to be considered.

Scrolls have been secured and were to be distributed among all teachers to place in their classrooms, whereupon the children who become members of the Junior Red Cross will have their names engraved.

A Junior Red Cross chapter was organized in about every rural classroom in the county last year, and the same record is to be duplicated this term.

Other than a discussion about Red Cross work, Mr. Leonard and his assistants, Mr. Clark and Mr. Gray, discussed a number of problems having to do with the present program of rural school activities.

County Farm Bureau Officers To Hold Meet Monday Night

A joint meeting of the board of directors and the executive committee of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau will be held in the offices of the farm bureau at Lisbon at 7:30 o'clock Monday night, for the purpose of considering plans for a "clean-up" membership drive in this county.

DAMASCUS HIGH HOLDS EXHIBIT

The four classes of the Damascus high school, gave their annual school fair Friday night.

The prize banner offered the class making the best display, was won by the sophomores, and this will be retained by the class when sessions are held in the new school building.

There are about 80 students in these classes and all scoured the countryside for farm products, flowers, and relics. These were displayed Friday night. One pumpkin on exhibit could not be placed in a bushel basket on account of its size.

The floral display was larger than that shown at the county fair, while the fancy work section disclosed that the children of this school are capable of doing clever needle work.

In the basement of the school, refreshments were served, consisting of cider and cake, ice cream and fruits.

A feature of the event was a display of leaves, arranged by one of the faculty, about 700 specimens being displayed, each from a different tree.

LEETONIA-LISBON ROAD IS OPENED

Detour signs have been removed from the Leetonia-Lisbon road, and this highway was opened to through traffic at noon Saturday.

Contractors are making some improvements to the Y. & O. crossing at Waddells on this road, but the work will not interfere with traffic.

This road has been widened by the construction of a seven foot road of concrete, which with the brick road makes the road 18 feet wide from the Centre-Salem township line north.

William Keeseecker of Youngstown who had charge of this contract will move his equipment to the Wellsview-Salineville road in Washington township.

COMPLETE WORK ON CANTON HILL

The Canton hill, west of Lisbon, which has been under repair for the last six weeks, was opened to traffic last Saturday afternoon. Contractor Herman C. Armstrong announced.

The 1,600 feet of hill is resurfaced with hillside paving block, and on an inch bed of sand. On the original base, crushed stone was used to fill the deep ruts, and on top of this roadbed was placed a three inch course of slag. After the slag was rolled, then the sand cushion was made, and the paving block set on this. The concrete curb on either side of the road is 12 inches wide.

Elinor Glyn's Famous Novel, "Three Weeks," Offered on Screen

The old saying that "all the world loves a lover" was proved anew upon the publication of Elinor Glyn's most famous novel, "Three Weeks," which has now been pictureized and will be the attraction at the American theatre on Monday for three days. The novel dealt with the fervid love story between the young Englishman, Paul Verdayne, and the Queen of Sardinia, of whose identity he was ignorant and who had been estranged from the King by his dissolute behavior and his cruelty towards his subjects. The story created a sensation upon its publication in book form and has continued to be widely read throughout the world.

The pictureization has been directed by Alan Crosland who wielded the megaphone on such productions as "Enemies of Women," and "Under the Red Robe." The resulting film is a love romance that will hold audiences enthralled.

Another of the great casts which Goldwyn Pictures Corporation has been selecting for its productions, appears in "Three Weeks." The role of the Queen is played by Aileen Fringle, who has demonstrated acting ability of an unusual order in her previous Goldwyn appearances. The role of the young Englishman who falls in love with her is portrayed by Conrad Nagel, and he does in this picture even more accomplished acting than he did in Marshall Neilan's "The Rendezvous" or in Victor Seastrom's "Name the Man!" in other distinguished players in the cast are John Sainpolis, H. Reeves-Smith, Stuart Holmes, Mitchell Lewis, Joan Standing, Robert Cain, Nigel de Brulier, Dale Fuller, William Haines and many others.

"Three Weeks" is a picture destined to make as big a sensation on the screen as it did in book form. The photography is unusually beautiful and the sets are a radical departure from the ordinary. Mrs. Glyn's fearless analysis of the love passion and its effect on character, has been faithfully transposed to the screen.

EIGHT GRANTED DIVORCES HERE

Seven Women and One Man Given Freedom By Court.

Of the nine divorce petitions taken before Judge James G. Moore in common pleas court this week, one case was passed and eight decrees awarded, seven women having been separated from their husbands and one man was given a decree against his wife. It was one of the most active divorce court sessions in many months.

Louis L. Barth, who sued his wife, Helen Barth, for marital freedom, secured a decree on the grounds of gross neglect of duty.

Margaret Runyan, a minor, who sued for divorce from her husband, Jack Runyan, had no trouble in obtaining her decree. She was granted a separation because her husband is imprisoned in the Pennsylvania penitentiary for a felonious crime. Mrs. Runyan was restored to her maiden name, that of Margaret Harpold.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty on the part of the defendant, Mary E. Hazlett was granted a divorce from her husband, James H. Hazlett.

Gross neglect of duty was charged by Maude May Shively against her husband, George W. Shively, and she was awarded a decree. She was also restored to her maiden name, that of Maude May Henry.

In the divorce action of Alice Aiken against her husband, Clyde W. Aiken, and others, the restraining order prayed for when the action was filed has been dissolved, and a decree of divorce has been granted the plaintiff on the grounds of gross neglect of duty on the part of the defendant.

Alimony in this case has been allowed by the court, as has been agreed upon. Each party is to pay his and her share of the costs, and the decree will be entered as soon as the costs have been paid the clerk of courts.

Mary Ijames, who sued her husband, Randolph Ijames, for separation on the grounds of three years' wilful absence, has obtained her decree, and she has been restored to her maiden name, Mary Simpson.

Grace Snodgrass charged her husband, Carl Snodgrass, with gross neglect of duty in her petition, and she proved this fact to the court. She has been awarded a decree and restored to her maiden name, that of Grace Abrams.

At the costs of the plaintiff, the divorce action filed by Olive G. Johnston against her husband, Willis J. Johnston, has been dismissed by the court and on motion of the plaintiff.

The case of Frank E. Carson, of East Liverpool, who sued his wife, Clara C. Carson, for divorce, has been passed and leave has been granted Carson to file an amended answer and cross petition, which means that this case is to be considered when it comes to trial. Interlocutory of the present answer to the petition of the plaintiff by the defendant has been permitted by the court, and the cross petition is to be filed instantly.

DAMASCUS HIGH HOLDS EXHIBIT

The four classes of the Damascus high school, gave their annual school fair Friday night.

The prize banner offered the class making the best display, was won by the sophomores, and this will be retained by the class when sessions are held in the new school building.

There are about 80 students in these classes and all scoured the countryside for farm products, flowers, and relics. These were displayed Friday night. One pumpkin on exhibit could not be placed in a bushel basket on account of its size.

The floral display was larger than that shown at the county fair, while the fancy work section disclosed that the children of this school are capable of doing clever needle work.

In the basement of the school, refreshments were served, consisting of cider and cake, ice cream and fruits.

A feature of the event was a display of leaves, arranged by one of the faculty, about 700 specimens being displayed, each from a different tree.

LEETONIA-LISBON ROAD IS OPENED

Detour signs have been removed from the Leetonia-Lisbon road, and this highway was opened to through traffic at noon Saturday.

Contractors are making some improvements to the $\frac{1}{2}$ O. crossing at Waddells on this road, but the work will not interfere with traffic.

This road has been widened by the construction of a seven foot road of concrete, which with the brick road makes the road 18 feet wide from the Centre-Salem township line north.

William Keeseecker of Youngstown who had charge of this contract will move his equipment to the Wellsville-Salineville road in Washington township.

COMPLETE WORK ON CANTON HILL

The Canton hill, west of Lisbon, which has been under repair for the last six weeks, was opened to traffic late Saturday afternoon. Contractor Herman C. Armstrong announced.

The 1,600 feet of hill is resurfaced with hillside paving block, and an inch deep of sand. On the original base, crushed stone was used to fill the deep ruts, and on top of this road was placed a three inch course of slag. After the slag was rolled, then the sand cushion was made, and the paving block set on this. The concrete curb on either side of the road is 12 inches wide.

Approve Property Sale.

Sale of property in Salem owned by the Salem Community Service association has been approved by the court and confirmation has been made a matter of journal entry. The money has been paid to the treasurer of the association, so Judge James G. Moore has been informed by those who filed a petition in court asking permission to sell the property.

More Suits Against Salem

Two actions claiming $5,000 damages in each instance, have been filed in common pleas court against the City of Salem. The cases are additions to those now pending against the municipality, and are the outcome of the Salem sewage question.

The petitions were filed by Metzgar & McCarty in behalf of James Kasso and Julia Rossi, who own a farm in Section 26, Perry township, and Daniel I. Richards, who owns a farm in section 23, Goschen township, Mahoning county.

Elinor Glyn's Famous Novel, "Three Weeks," Offered on Screen

The old saying that "all the world loves a lover" was proved anew when the publication of Elinor Glyn's most famous novel, "Three Weeks," which has now been pictureized and will be the attraction at the American theatre on Monday for three days.

The novel dealt with the fervid love story between the young Englishman, Paul Verdayne, and the Queen of Sardinia, of whose identity he was ignorant and who had been estranged from the King by his dissolute behavior and his cruelty towards his subjects. The story is a sensation upon the public in book form and has continued to be widely read throughout the world.

The pictureization has been directed by Alan Crosland who wielded the megaphone on such productions as "Enemies of Women," and "Under the Red Robe." The resulting film is a love romance that will hold audiences enthralled.

Another of the great casts which Goldwyn Pictures Corporation has been selecting for its productions, appears in "Three Weeks." The role of the Queen is played by Aileen Pringle, who has demonstrated acting ability of an unusual order in her previous Goldwyn appearances. The role of the young Englishman who falls in love with her is portrayed by Conrad Nagel, and he does in this picture even more accomplished acting than he did in Marshall Neilan's "The Rendezvous" or in Victor Seastrom's "Name the Man!" Other distinguished players in the cast are John Sainpolis, H. Reeves-Smith, Stuart Holmes, Mitchell Lewis, Joan Standing, Robert Cain, Nigel de Brulier, Dale Fuller, William Haines and many others.

"Three Weeks" is a picture destined to make as big a sensation on the screen as it did in book form. The photography is unusually beautiful and the sets are a radical departure from the ordinary. Mrs. Glyn's fearless analysis of the love passion and its effect on character, has been faithfully transposed to the screen.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

The aim of this course is to develop in the students' mind such a knowledge of practical Business Law as will enable him in conducting his business or profession to proceed within his legal rights, conserving his own best interests without trespassing on the rights of others. A accountant or bookkeeper, for while they are not called upon to invade knowledge of Commercial Law is an absolute necessity for every active province of the trained lawyer, yet in order to safeguard the interest of their clients or employers, they should nevertheless have a good knowledge of Business Law. They should be able to pass expert judgment upon contracts and agreements and to know the law as it applies to negotiable paper and other business matters.

Such knowledge is also most important to the stenographer, secretary or clerk, for almost every day persons in these positions are called upon to deal with some matter that involves a principle of business law.

The course is planned on the more accurate inductive method. The legal principles are presented in easy practical language understandable by the average student. To crystallize the principles in the student's mind, and in order that the student will associate the knowledge with real life, interesting test questions and hypothetical problems are planned with each lesson, designed to draw the student out, and exercise and develop his power of analysis. Sufficient construction work is provided to give the student a self confidence and initiative in preparing commercial papers that will be of material advantage to him in actual practice.

Full information may be obtained upon request.

THE WORLD CRISIS

millions now living will never die

Among the nations there is a feverish effort to stabilize themselves through frequent changes in government.

New plans are frequently submitted; but somehow man seems to sense failure in each expedient—in due time another failure is witnessed.

In the churches the Modernist and Fundamentalist battle really proves to be a sinister impeachment of the Bible.

Earth's trouble increases as though developing to a certain and fixed end.

Bible prophecies have foretold present conditions, and predict man's happy future on the earth shortly.

"Study of Relative Value of Service Needed in U. S. Industrial Life."
"The elimination of industrial disputes calls for our making a beginning of the study of the relative value of service," declares ex-Gov. James Hartness of Vermont, successor of Herbert Hoover as president of the American Engineering Council.
"This country has reached the stage in its development in which all interest must take a broad national view," he continued in a recent address. "National team work will increase the wealth to be divided and reduce the cost of production."
"We have been so tardy in taking the broad view of our problems of industry that we must not be discouraged if the battle continues after we have started to improve our way of dealing."
"We have retained too long the habit of thought and action that was acquired during the days of simple animosities that can not be greatly reduced in this generation, but this constitutes neither basis nor reason for us to continue inactive."

Steps to Curb Frauds.

It was a situation by no means new to the four walls of the Jailbird nor to the men concerned. It was a two-man fight, with as yet no call for the four friends of Quinnion to interfere. It would take the spit and snarl of a revolver, the flash of flame, the acrid smell of burning powder to switch their sympathetic watching into actual participation. No new situation certainly for Chris Quinnion, who took quick stock of the table with its heavy top and screened his body with it, no new situation for Sive, the big bartender, who was at the shattered door almost as Bud Lee sent it rocking drunkenly.

Since a fight like this in a small room may end in three seconds and yet remain a fight for men to talk of at street corners for many a day thereafter, it is surely a struggle baffling adequate description. For while you speak of it, it is done; while a clock ticks, two guns may carry hot lead and cut in two two threads of life.

Quinnion was down and shooting, with but ten steps or less between him and the man whom he sought to kill; Bud Lee was standing, tall and straight, back to wall, his first bullet ripping into the boards of the table, sending a flying splinter to stick in Quinnion's face, close to a squinting, slitted eye; and as the two guns spoke like one, a third from the open barroom shattered the lamp swinging from the ceiling between Lee and Quinnion. Steve, the bartender, had taken a hand.

The card room was plunged in darkness so thick that Lee's frowning eyes could no longer make out Quinnion's head above the table, so black that to Quinnion's eyes the tall form of Lee against the wall was lost in shadow.

As Steve fired his shot into the lamp, Bud Lee understood just what would be Steve's next play; the bartender had given his friends brief respite from the deadly fire of the Blue Lake man, and now would turn his second shot through the flimsy wall itself on the man standing there. Lee did not hesitate now, but with one leap was across the room, avoiding the table, seeking to come to close quarters with Quinnon and have the thing over and done with. In the bitterness still gnawing at his heart, he told himself again that it would be no calamity to the world if the two men who had insulted Judith Sanford went down together.

Again Steve fired. His bullet ripped into the wall, tearing a hole through the partition where a brief instant ago Lee had stood. The light out in the barroom was extinguished. In the card room it was utterly, impenetrably dark now, only a vague square of lesser darkness telling where was the window through which Shorty had fled.

A red flare of flame from Quinnton crouched, and Lee stood very still, refusing the temptation to fire back. For Quinnton's bullet struck wide of the mark, striking the wall a full yard to Lee's left. Quinnton's eyes had not found him; he would not find him soon if he stood quite motionless. The fight was still to be made, Quinnton's friends would be taking a hand now. Steve had already joined issue. There were six of them against him and with one shot fired from his heavy Colt there were but five left. No shot to be wasted.

A little creaking of a floor board, a vague, misty blur almost at his side, and still Lee saved his fire. Quickly he lifted the big revolver, held welded to grip of steel, throwing it high above his head and striking downward. There was almost no sound just the thudding blow as the thick barrel struck heavy mat of hair, and with no outcry a man went down to lie still. At the same moment the dis-square of the window showed a form slipping through; one man was seeking safety from a quarrel not his own. And as he went, there came again soft thudding blow and Carson's dry voice outside saying calmly:

"Two men down," grunted Lee to himself with grim satisfaction. "And old Carson back on the job. Only two to our one now."

The form in the window crumpled and under Carson's quick hands was jerked out. Suddenly it was very still in the little room. Steve did not fire a third time; Quinnton held his fire. For Lee had made no answer and they were taking heavy chances with every shot now, chances of shooting the wrong man. Each of the four watchful men in the narrow apartment breathed softly.

Once more Lee lifted his gun above his head as he held thus, he put out his left hand gently inch by inch, gropingly. Extended full length, touched nothing. Slowly he moved it in a semi-circle the gun in his right hand always ready to come crashing down. His fingers touched the wall, the moving back assured him that no one was within reach. Lifting a foot slowly, he took one cautious step forward, toward the spot where he had last seen Quintanon. Again his arm, circling through the darkness, sought to locate for him one of the men who must be very near him now. Suddenly brushed a man's shoulder.

There was a sharp, muttered exclamation, and again a flare of red flame as this man fired. But he had misjudged Bud Lee's position by a few inches; the bullet cut through Lee's coat, and Lee's clubbed revolver fell unerringly, smashing into the man's forehead. There was a low moan, a revolver clattered to the floor, a body fell heavily.

"A new situation," thought Lee. Three minutes down before a clock could tick off as many minutes and not a single man shot. It was a place for a man like Charley Miller with his old pickhandle.

"Bud," called Carson's voice sharply, "are you all right?"

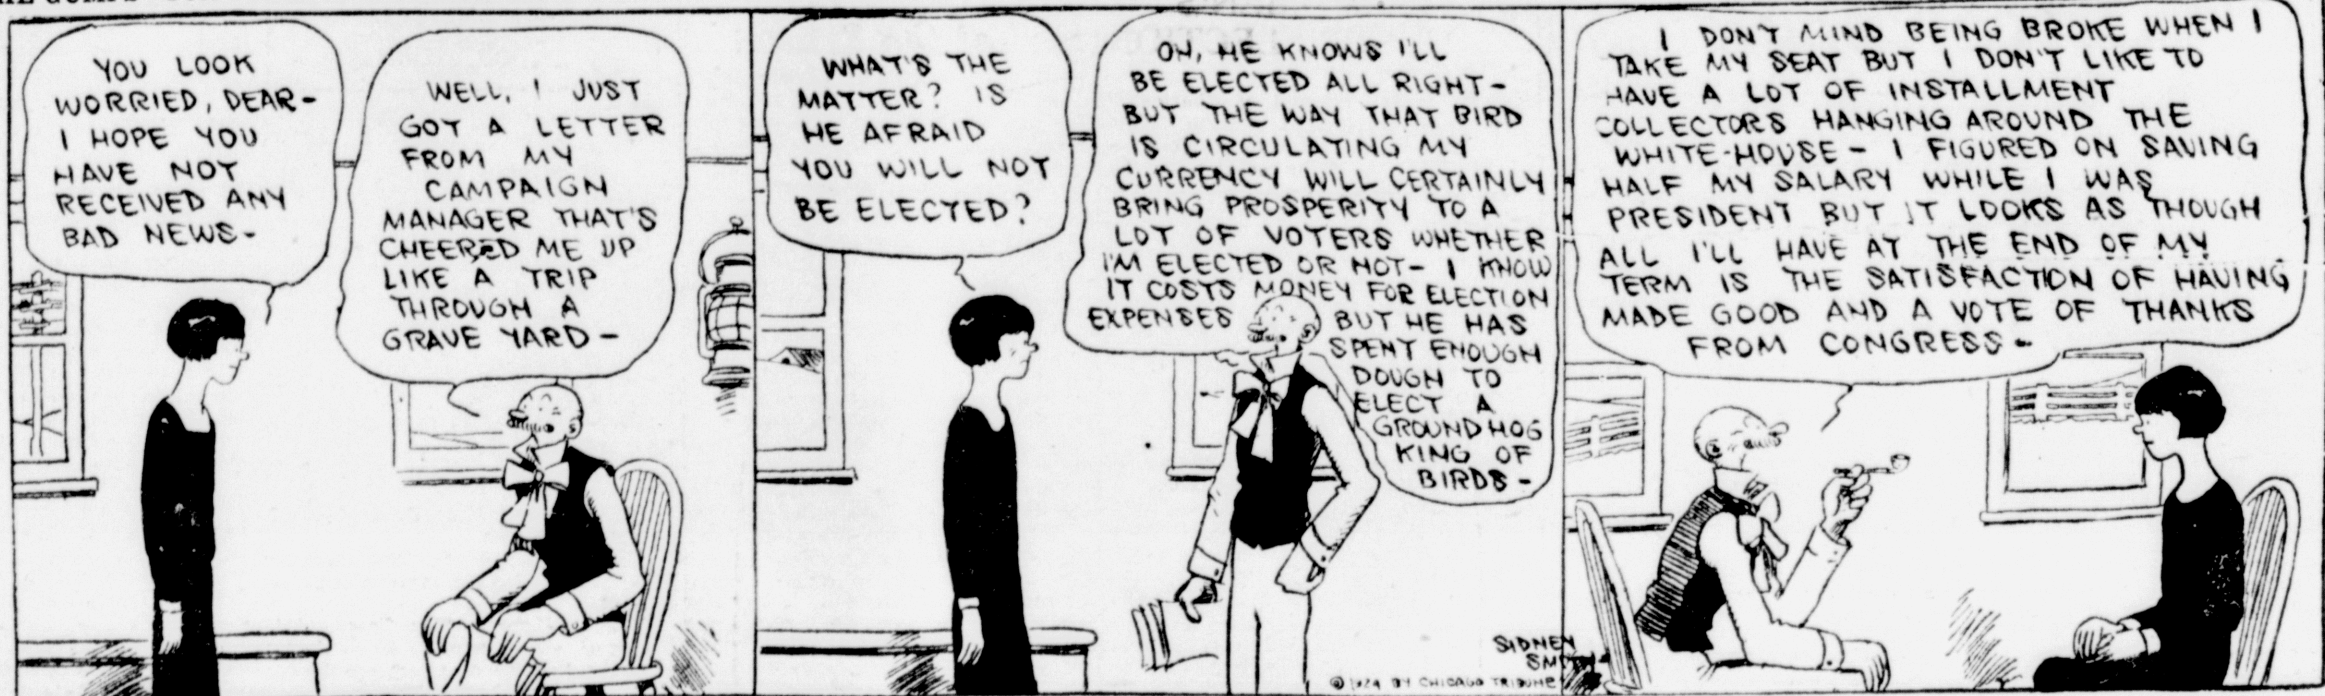

"Yes," answered Lee briefly, and as he answered moved sharply to one side so that his own might not draw a shot from Quinnon or the other men. There came two spurts of flame, one from each of the corners of the room opposite him, and reports of the two shots reverberating loudly.

This was mere guesswork—shooting at no more definite thing than a man's voice, and Lee having moved swiftly had little fear. And he knew pretty well where those two men men were now.

So did Carson, who from without fired in through the window. Then again it grew so still that a clock ticking somewhere out in the barrack was to be heard distinctly, so that again the men guarded their breathing.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 30c.

SUFFERED SINCE YOUNG GIRL

Words Failed to Express Benefit Received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Texas.—"Words cannot express how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. Every month I would have cramps and headache, and I felt like I was freezing to death. I suffered in this way from the time I was a young girl, and all the doctors said was 'operation.' For months I had a tired, sleepy feeling all day, and when night would come I would be so nervous I couldn't stay in bed. Our druggist recommended the Vegetable Compound to my husband and he bought four bottles. I have taken every one and I think I have a right to praise your medicine."—Mrs. J. E. HOLLEMAN, 2214 E. Marshall Street, Greenville, Texas.

For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been used by women from girlhood through middle age.

It is a dependable medicine for troubles common to women. Such symptoms as Mrs. Holleman had are relieved by correcting the cause of the trouble. For sale by druggists everywhere.

ARMY-NOTRE DAME GAME FEATURES SATURDAY CARD

Odds Favor Irish Despite Rockne's Assertions That Team's Not Up To Rating

Cadets Supposed to Have Their Best Eleven Since Days of Oliphant; More Than 60,000 to See Intersectional Struggle.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Football's big moment of the early season will fall due with the climactic Army-Notre Dame meeting at the Polo Grounds this afternoon.

New York has fairly lashed itself into a lather at the prospect and not less than 60,000 will set in at the death, this total being all the law will allow until the management installs rubber stands. It will be quite a spacious occasion.

Notre Dame Alumni, of which New York has more than its quota, will occupy an entire side of the field. The West Point Cadets, in toto, will sit on the opposite side of the spectacle. It will be a spectacle that will take place of the Army-Navy game, lost to New York for the year.

Army-Notre Dame was the only substitute and New York got it.

The two teams figure so evenly on paper that the breaks of the game are certain to have an abiding influence on the outcome.

Odds of 6 to 5 favor Notre Dame to win, in spite of Knute Rockne's pregame warning that he didn't consider his present outfit to be up to the standard of last year. The further fact that the Army, grimly determined to win this season and definitely end a string of disasters against Notre Dame, is believed to have mustered a stronger front than at any time in recent years doesn't seem to have affected the confidence of those who fancy the Irish.

He confidently looks for that great backfield of Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden to run wild. He looks for the light Irish forwards, considerably outweighed and out-experienced by the Army line, to overcome their opponents by speed and intelligence. He looks for Crowe, Collins and Huntzinger, the Irish ends, to turn back Harry Wilson, the former Penn State star. In brief, he looks for Notre Dame to win.

The writer thinks that Notre Dame may be in for a surprise. It is not possible for the South Bend outfit to go back with the victory always and forever henceforth, and this time the Army is loomed for bear, if ever it was before. It is supposed to have its best team since the days of Oliphant and Vidal.

It has Hewitt, a fine line plunger, Wood, a great punter, and Ball runner; Wilson, an all-American half-back; Gebisch, former all-American center, and flanking him, a pair of veteran guards in Farwick and Ellinger. Rockne has said he expects his line to be outplayed. The failure of his line might take the game from the Irish.

Toronto Will Attempt Job Of Holding Akron Gridders Scoreless In Sunday Game

Earl Mundy, East Liverpool Star, to Start at Flank Position Against Pros; Record Crowd of Fans Expected.

TORONTO, October 18.—The same team which has in three games run a total of 85 points to its opponents' none, will go against the strong Akron professionals in the first big-league game here Sunday afternoon.

The Tigers, who have not had their goal line crossed this year, are planning a terrific fight to keep the Akron Pros from breaking that record. Last year neither team could score against each other.

Mundy, East Liverpool youth who holds down an end position with the Tigers. He has played consistently in the last three years, is fast on his feet, a sure tackle and one of the most valuable men Coach Radman has.

"Slippery" Seeds, Salem boy who in the last two games has made more gains than any other player, including 135 yards in two runs for touchdowns, will probably not start the game but will go in during the last half.

MOURN DEATH OF M'MILLAN

Continue Schedule However, at Request of Relatives.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 13.—Mountain football athletes will make an effort to overcome the pall that has hovered over the community and campus since Gordon "Bo" McMillan, promising varsity quarter back, died early Thursday after a game fight against heavy odds, when they lineup against Geneva college in the new stadium here Thursday afternoon.

Relatives and fraternity brothers requested that there be no interruption in the gridiron program and university athletic officials immediately notified all concerned that the games would be played.

"Bo," the man, is being missed as "Bo," the athlete.

McMillan entered West Virginia in 1922 after spending a year at the University of Minnesota. His exceptional punting attracted attention and he remained on the squad throughout the season, making the post-season trip to San Diego for the Gonzago game.

Last year a broken collarbone kept him out of the lineup, but this year after fighting in his characteristic manner he earned a varsity berth. He played in both the Wesleyan and Allegheny games and was to have been in the lineup against Pitt. It was only ten days ago that he complained of a sore throat and was ordered to bed. Although unable to accompany the squad to Pittsburgh his condition was not regarded as serious until Monday when pneumonia and complications developed.

For three days McMillan waged a courageous fight. University and Morgantown physicians, a Pittsburgh specialist and Dr. C. W. Spears, his coach, were in constant attendance and his parents arrived when all hope for his recovery had been abandoned.

"Bo" rallied Wednesday but the spark of life grew dim that night and he passed into the Great Unknown. McMillan was conscious almost to the last and though aware of his condition kept the cheer that made him so popular on the campus. He was game to the end—and smiled.

McMillan was not the most valuable football player on the Mountaineer squad but he was easily the best liked and only those who live in Morgantown can understand how his death has affected everyone.

"Bo" was a star in track and he holds the state records for the pole vault and broad jump. He was the captain-elect of his team, a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity and a number of campus honorary societies—and above all a smiling scrapper who played the game square.

Calls Willys-Knight
"Smoother Than Most Sixes and Eights"

HIRAM PERCY MAXIM, President of the Maxim Silencer Company, says: "The Lan Chester Balancer certainly takes out the vibration. It makes the motor smoother than most six and eight-cylinders on the road today."

No Vibration

Ever since automobiles have been built, engineers have been everlastingly striving to conquer engine vibration. Now the new Willys-Knight achieves positive engine smoothness by a device so simple and efficient that all engineers are wondering why it wasn't invented years ago. . . .

The Lan Chester Balancer . . . the discovery of Dr. F. W. Lan Chester, F. R. S., builder of one of the most expensive motor cars in Great Britain. By securing the United States rights for the use of this remarkable invention, Willys-Knight introduces in America an entirely new conception of enjoyable motoring.

This is still another triumph for a car already famous for its engine. The Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine actually improves with use. Never needs valve-grinding. Never needs carbon-cleaning. Owners report 50,000 miles and more without an engine adjustment.

Everybody is talking about Willys-Knight's vibrationless performance—and everybody who rides talks of the thrill of it. If only for the sake of a new experience, drive a Willys-Knight over the road today at all speeds.

Toronto Will Attempt Job Of Holding Akron Gridders Scoreless In Sunday Game

Earl Mundy, East Liverpool Star, to Start at Flank Position Against Pros; Record Crowd of Fans Expected.

TORONTO, October 18.—The same team which has in three games run a total of 85 points to its opponents' none, will go against the strong Akron professionals in the first big league game here Sunday afternoon.

The Tigers, who have not had their goal line crossed this year, are planning a terrific fight to keep the Akron Pros from breaking that record. Last year neither team could score against each other.

Mundy, East Liverpool youth who holds down an end position with the Tigers. He has played consistently in the last three years, is fast on his feet, a sure tackle and one of the most valuable men Coach Radman has.

"Slippery" Seeds, Salem boy who in the last two games has made more gains than any other player, including 135 yards in two runs for touchdowns, will probably not start the game but will go in during the last half.

BOWLER WINS NEWARK RACE

Record Speeds Made in First Young Birds' Race.

The East Liverpool Homing Club opened up its young bird racing series this week from Newark, O., and the event proved a hard race. The speeds were the lowest ever made under auspices of the local club. The birds were liberated in a downpour of rain. Johnny Bull, a red cock owned by H. Bowler, won first place and second went to Hurricane, owned by J. Woods, of the East End.

The second race from Xenia developed a few surprises for local fanciers. First and second places were captured by P. Ruddy, of West Point, with a light check bird of smart appearance. Considerable credit is given the victor for his success as this was his first attempt in connection with the East Liverpool club events.

INDIANA BACKS STRONG ELEVEN

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—The strongest eleven Indiana University has backed in years is ready for the coming big games with her Big Ten opponents, Chicago (October 18), Northwestern, Ohio State, and Purdue.

The Hoosier team's strength was indicated when it held Louisiana a 14 to 20 score in its first important intercollegiate game with one of the stronger southern teams. That near approach to victory after overwhelping ones over Rose Poly and De Pauw showed what weaknesses existed in the team's attacking and defensive play.

The team is a veteran one, almost to a man. Captain Wilkins and Eberhardt, an end, were the only letter men who did not return to school last September. Coach Bill Ingram had for his backfield such stars as Captain Sloate, Marks Prucha, Zivich, Lorr and Moonman. Butler, ex-captain, George Fisher, Scott Fisher, Springer, Hoblick, Niness, Zaiser give him plenty of veteran line material. And in addition to these men he has unearthed half a dozen good men from the freshman team of last year.

Indiana beat her bitterest rival, Purdue, 3 to 0 last season and whipped Northwestern 7 to 6, but was trounced by Wisconsin and Chicago.

Play for Charity.
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—One of the biggest crowds that ever witnessed an exhibition match, is expected to follow the professional-amateur affair, involving Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen against Jesse Sweetser and Francis Ouimet, at St. Albans, L. I., tomorrow. The proceeds will be turned over to charity, with the provision that the poor of New York be the beneficiaries.

Airplanes may be used to transport men from mines that otherwise would be inaccessible.

Dancer Improves On Lucy Stone; Has Own Name and Husband's, Too

The wife of Fokine, famed Russian dancer, has improved on the Lucy Stone League idea of retaining the maiden name after marriage. She identifies herself with her husband's name and retains her individuality at the same time. She calls herself Fokina. As Maria Korolova, she was famous as a dancer in Russia before her marriage to Fokine.

LEPPER FAMILY'S FIFTH GENERATION FOLLOWS NEWSPAPER PROFESSION

William Daniel Lepper, Great Great Grandfather of Columbus Journalistic Students, Founded Ohio Patriot at Lisbon.

The old saying of "like father like son—and daughter," might be applied to the Lepper family now residents of Columbus, a descendant of whom founded the Ohio Patriot at Lisbon during the early part of the nineteenth century.

Miss Althea and James Lepper, of Columbus, represent the fifth generation in the family in the journalistic profession. The former, a junior in the college of journalism at Ohio State University, is one of the 10 news editors on university daily, "The Lantern," while her younger brother, James, is the editor-in-chief of The Polaris, monthly publication of the Columbus North High school.

Their great great grandfather, William Daniel Lepper, a native of Alsace, Lorraine, came to the United States shortly after the close of the Revolutionary war and after several years' travel through New York and Pennsylvania, established the Ohio Patriot at what was then known as New Lisbon, seat of Columbiana county.

The paper was printed on material brought from Pittsburgh. Since no newspaper was printed in Cleveland until 1818, the legal printing and job work of the entire eastern part of the state was done in the Patriot office.

William D. Lepper II continued the publication of the Patriot after his father's death. His younger brother, Edward, also took up the trade of a printer. The grandfather of the present generation, Albert F. Lepper was indirectly connected with the newspaper profession, contributing articles to magazines and newspapers at various times.

Edward L. Lepper, father of Miss Lepper and James, was formerly connected with the Attica Hub and newspapers at Tiffin. At the present time he is associated with the Logan Gas company.

Read Work Progressing.
McARTHUR, O.—Read progress is reported in the construction of the first all-year road between Vinton and Hocking counties, the route between McArthur and Logan. Because of the importance of the road to this section of the state, the highways department is demanding that work be speeded up.

ELYRIA, O.—Basil Rafter, secretary of the Paradise Soda Grill Co., writes from Greece that he is returning to America with a girl who rescued him from drowning as his bride.
